I have received all your letters even though I have been a little remiss in answering you. However, all the contents have been very carefully noted, and the information has been passed on to where I think it will do the most good.

Your comments have been appreciated, and I think things are going better now, and we are all hoping that they will continue to go better. Some of the things suggested just can't be done, but enough things are going on that I think the general situation should improve from now on.

With very best wishes, believe me,

Sincerely,

R. H. Hillenkoetter
